POLITICAL PARADE

By CLEM WHITAKER

When enactments of the 1941 State Legislature become effective a few days hence—on Sept. 13—you can cut loose if you like, and drive 55 miles an hour on any state highway without fear of the traffic cop trailing along behind you.

You can tell your wife you don't like spinach—and drink your vitamins along with your milk, providing your dairyman takes advantage of the new vitamin-milk law.

And if it is absolutely essential that you work a seven-day-week, you can do it without fear of being jailed because you milked the cow on Sunday.

There are other things you can't do, however—many of them! For example, if you have a good income, and your parents need assistance, you can't just pass your responsibility along to the state and expect it to take care of them with an old age pension. One of the new laws provides that adult children must contribute to the support of their parents if they are able, and if such aid is necessary.

If you haven't got a job, you can't go on SRA either, because the Legislature decided there's plenty of work for everyone able to work—and cut out all appropriations for the Relief Administration.

And if you've taken an oath to obey the order of any foreign government or official, don't try to get a job on any public payroll. You're just not eligible.

All in all, 1284 new laws will be written into the California statute books on Sept. 13, many of them technical in nature, but some of them far-reaching in importance. No new state taxes will be imposed, as the Legislature killed off all such proposals. On the other hand, several hoped-for-tax reductions will not take place, as Governor Olson put the skids under the tax saving bills.

Under a sweeping measure enacted as part of the national defense program, severe penalties are provided for sabotage or attempted sabotage in defense industries and the act allows the closing off of property, highways, and streets where necessary to the protection of such industries. Another defense measure empowers the Governor to organize and maintain a State Guard of not less than 10,000 persons to replace the National Guard which has been called into active service.

Los Angeles county, under the new reapportionment law will get two new Assembly districts, while San Francisco and Alameda counties will each lose one. Of three new congressional districts created, due to the state's growth in population, two will go to Southern California, and the third to the southern central coast area.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Leverton and son Kenneth spent the week-end at their cottage in Paradise Park, Santa Cruz mountains.

Ellen Lanphear Is Injured In Auto Accident

Campbell friends of Mrs. Ethan Lanphear are anxiously awaiting further news of her condition as the result of an automobile accident which occurred Tuesday somewhere in the vicinity of Crescent City.

In company with her sister, Mrs. Hazel Griest, and a close friend of the latter, Edla Olsen, both of Los Angeles, she left Monday for an auto trip to Canada, going up the Redwood highway, and coastal route.

Her husband received a telegram from her stating that on Tuesday her sister was critically injured, the friend had been killed and herself not so bad, the car demolished. She advised him not to drive up as the road was bad and slippery. However, their son, George, and Mr. Lanphear left Wednesday night.

A telephone call from Los Angeles informed the relatives here that Mrs. Griests's son, Leon Griest and the ladies' brother, Robert Wegner, had left for the north, and that their message from Crescent City seemed to indicate that Mrs. Lanphear might be more seriously injured.

Alvin Long Shows Pictures At Kiwanis Meeting

Alvin Long of San Jose who is quite a top notcher in taking amateur moving pictures showed films of Glacier National park which he took on a vacation trip, at Tuesday Kiwanis meeting. Lowell Benson did the presentation ceremonies.

The regular Tuesday meeting next week will be omitted but Thursday evening the members will join with the Los Gatos club in an Inter-club stag-barbecue at La Hacienda Inn, Los Gatos.

Delegates to the California-Nevada district convention to be held in the civic auditorium, San Jose, Oct. 23-25, were named as follows: President Joseph V. Gomes; secretary Joseph O. Leverton, and vice president, Jack Murdock. Alternates, Lowell Benson, Carl Field and Willard Van Dyke.

Sons Born To Local Families

San Jose hospitals reported 255 babies born in August. In the latter days of the month two of the new arrivals were born to Campbell parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Nelson, Quito road, had a son, Richard Lee, born Aug. 23; and Mr. and Mrs. Reed Souther also of Quito road, a son, Aug. 27, both at O'Connor sanitarium.

A marriage license was issued Saturday, Aug. 30, to Herman Pack, 21, and Maudine Buie, 19, both of Campbell.

The Footlighters have chosen "It Pays To Advertise," a modern comedy, for their next production to be given some time in October for the benefit of the community chest drive.

Selected as the cast for this production are Mrs. Helen Payne Wrigglesworth, who will play the part of the heroine, Mary Grayson, and opposite her will be Robert Weaver, the hero, as Rodney.

Cyrus Martin, a business man, will be portrayed by Jack Murdock, and the part of a salesman by Paul Becker.

Becker is the new physical education instructor at the Campbell Grammar school, and will direct the play.

Other members of the group appearing in parts are Mrs. Lenore Weaver, J. F. Levenberg, Miss Martha Parr, Mrs. Evelyn Shumway, Eugene Hodges, D. H. Cramer, Herold Morton and Ira Grim.

Miss Martha Parr was one of a group of Delta Kappa chapter of Sigma Gamma sorority, who motored to San Francisco last Friday to attend the Ice Follies and to enjoy a Mexican dinner later at a new Mexican night spot.

Women of Valley To Exhibit At County Fair

Plans are being completed for women's participation in exhibits at the coming Santa Clara county fair next month from the 7th through the 12th, under the leadership of Mrs. Benjamin Campbell of San Jose, general chairman.

Locally, Mrs. Wyland R. Morgan has secured the cooperation of several women to take charge of securing exhibits in some of the divisions which have been designated.

Mrs. Henry Young, rugs; Mrs. David Sanders, knitting and crochet, and Mrs. G. E. Jeffers, cakes for the contest on Women's day.

Contributions of canned fruits, jellies, canned vegetables, pickled fruits and vegetables, pies, quilts, (new and antique) table linens, weaving, wood carving, leather work, book-binding, pottery, potted plants and flower arranging are desired.

Anyone having any article to exhibit in any of these divisions will greatly facilitate the work if they will notify the leader if one is named, or the general chairman, Mrs. Morgan.

Mrs. Morgan hopes to get some lady to head several more of these departments.

Post Office Location Discussed

The agitation for the removal of the post office from the central business district to an outlying section is naturally very disturbing to the business men who have need to make several trips a day to that institution.

Without any town delivery or mail pick up personal visits to the office must be made.

If, as rumor esems to indicate, a move is made, it might be considerably westward it would also work a hardship on patrons living east of the tracks.

Postmaster Grim says that a building inspector from the San Francisco office will be here next week on an investigation of sites and prospects.

The suggestion has been made by patrons of the office of the possibility of a mezzanine floor in the present building to remove supply cabinets and provide space for storage of records as a means of providing more usable floor space.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Robinson of Berkeley are spending the week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Robinson. Mrs. Fred Coffin (Eva Robinson) and sons of Santa Rosa are also visiting with the Robinsons. Wednesday afternoon the families met the train from Salinas in San Jose to see Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Parker (Helen Robinson) off to New Orleans where Mr. Parker will continue his studies at Louisiana State School of Medicine.

Local Schools Set Opening Date For September 15

Campbell's Union schools will open on Monday, Sept. 15, as set at the close of last years terms.

Several changes have been made in the grammar school faculty:

Miss Dorris Tieman is taking the place of Charlotte Stauffer who had the 7th A and home economics. Miss Stauffer has gone to San Francisco to teach home economics and conduct the cafeteria at the Everett Junior High school.

Nicholas Barbieri will take Gus Standish's place as shop and physical education instructor. His home was in Humboldt county and he comes here from Sacramento where he was instructor in the Carmichael school.

Standish is planning to enter a different line of work in a defense project in the south.

Miss Velda White will have the first grade, which Miss Ruby Anderson taught. Miss Anderson has accepted a second grade class at El Segundo and will continue her musical education at Hollywood.

Miss Marie Bushell of last years faculty who taught music is now Mrs. Gust Peterson and Paul Becker of San Lorenzo will have charge of that department and some of the physical education work.

One additional teacher has been engaged, Miss Elizabeth Mills, who is a daughter of Rev. Henry Mills, pastor of St. Paul's Methodist church in San Jose, will have a 4th grade.

Public Observance Of Constitution Week Cancelled

Joseph O. Leverton announces that the general public observance of Constitution Week that was planned has been cancelled owing to conflicting dates, and failure to secure the desired speaker.

ADMISSION DAY

California celebrates the 91st anniversary of its admission into the Union on September 9.

Since the first turbulent stream of gold seekers and settlers hurried westward in creaking Conestoga wagons, by Overland stage and by way of the Canal or windy Cape Horn to reach the fabulous Land of El Dorado, this state has rarely ceased writing new chapters in her story of spectacular growth.

The lusty spirit of that first great migration to the Pacific, "California—or bust!", has never in the intervening years since 1850 been lost. In that period this commonwealth has been transformed from a sparsely settled outpost—34 days by fast stage from Missouri, six weeks by mail courier from Washington, D. C.—to a top-ranking state of dominating importance in agriculture, industry and finance and, more recently, in the defense program.

Today, in honoring its 91st birthday, California finds itself called upon to play a major part in arming the country at a critical hour. To California has been given the responsibility of handling a greater share of defense production than any other state. Nor is this mamoth job being restricted to its metropolitan centers. This state, having the country's most extensive banking system, finds the smallest community equipped with unlimited financial resources for the establishment and expansion of defense plants. This fact has enabled scores of small citie like Hawthorne and San Miguel to launch new industries and undertakinf. It is very few parts of the state which have not heard the urgent call of "All out for defense!"

Ninety-one years young on September 9, California is energentically engaged in writing perhaps the greatest chapter in her chronicle of growth.

WHAT'S THE ANSWER?

Who's got the answer? While administration critics say tha that the gasoline shortage is pure fiction, designed to create a war scare, government officials assert there really exists a critical lack of motor fuel on the Eastern seaboard. But despite this, all rationing was suspended over the threeday Labor Day week-end in the East to allow motorists to fill up tanks to the limit to deplete still further the supposedly very limited stocks on hand for the month of September.

The real shortage, some say, is not of gasoline, but of tankers to ship the fuel from the Gulf to the East coast. Nevertheless, this doesn't jibe with the assertion of experts that there are tankers and that fuel supplies in the East are plentiful and that only a war scare plan has brought on gasoline rationing. House and Senate investigating committees have more than once proved their worth in the course of the defense program. One such committee seems needed now to provide the answer to the question, "Gasoline shortage—fact or fiction?"

THE RIGHT TO BOO

Canadian soldiers stationed in England, bored to tears—or rather to jeers—by long inactivity, gave their visiting Prime Minister a rousing chorus of boos during his inspection tour in England. After the pained surprise had ebbed, officers decided disciplining was out of order. Said one captain, "These chaps are over here fighting for democracy and the right to boo is a democratic principle." If Prime Minister MacKenzie King wants quiet, he'll just have to get himself an officer's uniform.

HIRAM COMES HOME SHOOTING

That shaggy old warrior for peace, Senator Hiram W. Johnson, came home last week — and shot off both barrels before he had been in the state 24 hours. Still the implacable irreconcilable, bitterly opposed to American intervention in world affairs, 75-year-old Hiram doubled up his fist and exclaimed: "The President is determined to get us into a shooting war. And when that happens, there won't be any civil liberties left in this country."

It was the same old Hiram speaking—the Hiram who stumped the country two decades ago, fighting American entry into the League of Nations; the Hiram who forced another great American, Woodrow Wilson, to bow his head in defeat and disillusionment. And friend and foe alike, as they read Senator Johnson's characteristic home-coming blast, undoubtedly remarked: "Well, I see Hiram's still in fighting trim."

If you expect us to take Hiram on in this editorial in an attempt to prove that he hasn't kept pace with the bombers which span the seas and roar overhead, you are doomed to disappointment. On the other hand, if you expect us to defend his position, and argue that he is leading a crusade to save America from carnage and disaster, you shouldn't read any further.

The thing that interests us most about Hiram, as he celebrates his 75th birthday this week, is the fact that all his life he has been a warrior, always in a battle, or getting ready for one. Yet the passion of his life is peace. More than all else he wants peace and security for his native land, but we suspect that if there was nothing left to fight about he would die of a broken heart, grieving for the days of fire and brimstone. As a matter of sentiment—and this has no bearing on the question at issue—we hope Hiram never loses his shooting irons. Right or wrong, he's a grand old gladiator!

SENATOR'S SEDATIVE

Perhaps just to prove that some congressmen are interested in helping as well as soaking the tax-laden citizen, a U. S. senator has proposed that Uncle Sam take lot of paper work off the shoulders of the small taxpayer by filling out his income tax report for him.

With the Senate Finance committee approving lower exemptions which would create six million additional direct taxpayers, there's likely to be a large new army of bewildered souls wrestling with the highfalutin language of income tax forms, come next March. The senatorial proposal is that the government just send the small taxpayer a simple questionnaire concerning his income. After this is filled out and returned, the government will compute the tax for him and send him a bill—as simply as that!

The difficulty is that all this bookkeeping would require many more thousands of government clerks for the public to support—a fact which might depress the millions of small taxpayers even more than having to wrestle with surtaxes, depreciations, and earned income credits.

CRUMBLING BARRIERS

This already quickly shrinking planet has just received two more jolts reducing its waistline still further. Three land transport planes, flying from Oakland to Honolulu, set a new transpacific flight record the other day when they skimmed down upon a Hawaiian airport 13 hours and 55 minutes after leaving California. Meanwhile, an American bomber being ferried to England last week sped through the sub-zero stratosphere to complete its crossing of the Atlantic in seven and one-half hours. Those one-time ocean barriers are beginning to resemble speedways.

The FARMERS CORNER

by RALPH H. TAYLOR
Executive Secretary
Agricultural Council of California

The 1941 session of the Legislature was the most difficult and complicated in the state's history, but if evaluated on the basis, "All's well that ends well," the results from the farmer's standpoint were, on the whole, satisfactory.

The great bulk of the bad legislation was stopped, or at least made relatively harmless. Some good legislation became law, though many measures failed of enactment. No session in this writer's memory has ever demonstrated more conclusively the wisdom of having a system of "checks and balances." On many occasions, the Senate killed dangerous bills which had slipped through the Assembly. And in several instances, the Assembly came to the rescue and put to sleep unwise legislation which had been approved in the Senate.

In view of the vital need for a legislative check-rein, as repeatedly demonstrated during this year's session and other recent sessions, plans of labor leaders to initiate a measure to reapportion the Senate on a population basis are a threat to the welfare of agriculture and the whole state. Such a measure would throw the control of both houses of the Legislature into the three populous counties of Los Angeles, San Francisco and Alameda, comprising 57 per cent of the state's population. The other 55 counties would be at the complete mercy of labor-dominated, urban areas. If labor goes ahead with its scheme for a city-controlled state Senate, the people of rural California will be in for the fight of their lives—a fight to retain a voice in the making of the laws which they must live under.

Among the bills affecting agriculture which were signed by Governor Olson during the recent 30-day bill signing period, and which will become law on Sept. 13, are the following:

A. M. 1139, permitting group Workmen's Compensation Insurance policies by agricultural groups and cooperatives.

A. B. 1120, prohibiting the throwing of missiles at common carriers.

A. B. 1716, the Department of Agriculture's amendments to the Milk Control Act.

A. B. 2336, amendments to the Consumer Cooperative Law in the Civil Code.

A. B. 1025, extending to grapefruit the requirement that other citrus fruits for interstate shipment be in packed boxes. Governor Olson, however, vetoed A. B. 1026, which would have made the same requirement for-intrastate shipments.

S. B. 260, continuing hide and brand inspection fee at higher rate.

S. B. 536, amendments to California Marketing Act, including tree pulling provisions.

S. B. 799, providing for acreage adjustment payment under Agricultural Prorate Act.

S. B. 975, providing for the enforcement of labor contracts.

S. B. 1181, requiring report of animals killed by trains.

Also signed were numerous standardization acts, affecting avocados, citrus fruits, etc.

The Structural and Household Pest Control Operators' law was rewritten in A. B. 1057, which was signed. Two bills governing vitamin potency labeling on foods and drugs—A. B. 1071 and A. B. 1073—were also signed and will soon become law.

BREAK!

Passed by Censor

SERGEANT-MAJOR (Top Sergeant in the American language) H. J. Clare of the Canadian Active Army got a real break when an Ottawa debutante asked him to show her how to put on a gas mask during one of Canada's Army days which are special weekends when visitors are allowed to inspect the many military training camps in the Dominion. Canada now has about 575,000 men in uniform in all branches of the service abroad and at home and these forces, no matter where serving, are equipped and maintained at the expense of the Canadian people.

THE BOOK MARK

by marty

"No Life For A Lady" by Agnes Morley Cleaveland.

Whee! To be able to ride horses, hunt grizzlies and play poker like Agnes Morley did when she was a girl in her early teens is really something to write a book about.

This book is a story of the author's early life on a wide open ranch in New Mexico—in the last few years of the 1800's and the first years of the 1900's.

Now listen, my dear readers, you may say that you care nothing for "Western" stories—that's all right. This is a "Western" thriller and you will love it.

When Agnes Morley was only eleven years old her family moved from Denver to New Mexico, and when only a few years had passed her father was accidentally shot, leaving her mother with three small children. Now, Mrs. Morley was not a woman with pioneer blood in her veins and life was extremely confusing and difficult for her, but not so for her oldest child, Agnes. Being a girl did not stop Agnes from cowpunching, bear hunting and even horseshoeing. In due time she went to school in the east, as did her brother, Ray, but subsequently she came back to the ranch to help with the chores.

This is not a series of obvious, impossible experiences—rather it is a book that rings true, and the reader can feel that the author is giving a sincere account of her life when she was a cowpuncher.

It is amusing, thrilling and exciting. Young and old alike will love it.

What Campbell is reading: "Berlin Diary" by William L. Shirer; "Keys Of The Kingdom, by Dr. A. J. Cronin; "One Foot In Heaven" by Hartzell Spence; "Low Man On A Totem Pole" by H. Allen Smith; The Captain From Connecticut" by G. S. Forester.

Dr. and Mrs. F. R. Anderson and children, David and Marilyn, returned last week from a three weeks vacation at Balboa and Los Angeles. Visiting friends and sailing their Star boat in races was the prinicpal diversion of their enjoyable trip

Let Good Lighting Help You to Live . . . to Entertain

Light conditioned living room can add much to comfort and enjoyment of guests whether playing cards or nibbling tidbits later.

By Carlene Waldo

NOW is the time for all good American housewives to make home a place of greater cheer. Evenings are growing longer, blackness is gathering outside, but indoors the living room lighting can be more cheerful and easier on the eyes than ever before.

The new light conditioning that scientists have designed is intended to help conserve the eyesight, help relax the nerves and lift the spirits psychologically . . . all very important in times like these.

Softness and smoothness are characteristic of the new lighting which eliminates harsh distracting shadows. Scientifically-designed lamps are placed in good balance through the room; they send some of their light upward and use at least 100-watts each. Every chair where eyework is done is provided with a lamp. And helping to send cheer through the room is a good fixture. It can be either a well-designed new one or a modernized older one.

Lamps Stay Put

In a well-lighted room like this, games may be played at a card table, or refreshments enjoyed, without moving a single lamp out of place. All the activities of the family have been considered in planning the lighting, and father can read in his favorite chair or mother sew in hers with the assurance that eyesight-saving lighting is right at their elbows. The skies may darken outside but the American home can be filled with heart-warming cheer.

Recruiting Streamlined By Marines

To contact eligible men of this community, including those registered for selective service, the United States Marine Corps is pleased to announce new recruiting facilities.

The San Francisco Recruiting station has station-wagons and competent drivers to personally interview all men in their homes, who will write to the U. S. Marine Corps Recruiting Station, Room 46, Federal Office Building, San Francisco, California. Those men apparently qualified and desiring to enlist will be furnished transportation to the nearest recruiting station, board and lodging while there, and return transportation to their homes, if not accepted.

Applicants must be single, without dependents, and between the ages of 17 and 30; and 64 to 74 inches in height. The Marine Corps now offers a choice of enlistment terms. Applicants may now enlist for the duration of the present emergency, or for a period of four years.

Shown welcoming James J. Norris, administrative assistant for the National Catholic Community Service, and Daniel Culhane, national program director for the N. C. C. S. to the colorful ceremonies held at Arlington cantonment near Washington, D. C., General Marshall told the two and others who braved a blazing July sun for the simple but impressive dedicatory ceremony "these chapels will make a major contribution to that end." White frame, and with movable altar within, the chapels will be used by Catholics, Protestants and Jews alike. The National Catholic Community Service is a member agency of the United Service Organizations.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

The student government was created for the purpose of letting a large number of students participate. Therefore, fourteen commissions were established under a constitution.

These commissions are under the supervision of a student manager who is at the head of all commissions and who brings up most of the business at the council meeting. He is appointed by the council. This council is elected by the students, and is made up of seven members assisted by two faculty advisers. Council elections are held twice a year. Three students are elected to the council at the end of the first semester, and four council members are elected at the end of the last semester to be in office the following school year.

The council handles all business of the Associated Students of Campbell Union High school.

The fourteen commissions are explained in the following: (all duties of the commission refer to the student body or subsidiary organization unless otherwise stated).

Finance—in charge of all finincial transactions; art—in charge of all art work and posters; advertising — in charge of all advertising; order—in assistance at all functions; literary affairs—in charge of the "Oriole;" records—in charge of a record of all awards granted to each student participating in extra-curricular activities; school affairs—in charge of all assemblies.

Music — in charge of all musical programs at events; awards—in charge of all recommendations for awards made to the council; girls' athletics — in charge of all girls' sports. Commissioner is a voting delegate to all Girls' Peninsula Athletic League meetings; boys' athletics — in charge of all reports, appoints all managers; social affairs—in charge of rallies, dances, dinners, and any other social function not delegated to another organization; drama—in charge of all dramatic productions; scholarship—in charge of promotion of high scholarship, checks eligibility of students running for offices, and helps student manager in matters concerning scholarship.

DEFENSE BOND QUIZ

Q. I would like to provide a regular income for myself when I retire. Can this be done by buying Defense Savings Bonds?

A. Yes. If you purchase a Bond for $37.50 each month, each Bond will mature in exactly ten years. Thus at the end of ten years you will have $50 payable each month as each of your Bonds reaches maturity.

Q. L would like to provide 50 a month.

A. Then you should invest a larger amount a month. Every $75 you put into Defense Bonds will pay you $100 ten years from now. Meanwhile, your money serves your government during this period of national emergency.
